Individual states highlighted in green indicate states for which both the general election results and the presidential primary results can be independently verified online at the respective state election authority.

Where the "Δ PV" or "REP Support" is highlighted, only that information could be verified online at the election authority for the state in question. States identified in rose highlight could not be verified online at all at the respective state election authority.

For information that could not be independently verified online at the respective state election authority, "The Green Papers" was used as source information. All information is current as of 24 Nov 2012.
